CHINESE REDS SWARMING TOWARD SEOUL

Fullscale Assault On Ancient City Expected Any Hour By 8th Army Field Commanders

Tokyo, Thursday, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Leading elements of seven Chinese Communist armies early today reportedly surged to the outskirts of Seoul and began reforming for the assault of the ancient capital. Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from an Eighth Army post that the dying city's fall depended upon how soon the fast-charging Chinese units could reassemble.

Seoul, lighted by unheeded fires which devoured buildings, still was held by U. S. and Allied infantrymen. They were fighting to hold their withdrawal line against overwhelming odds.

The Chinese in the onslaught used some tanks, but the main assault was born by Communist infantry. The Reds struck in wave on wave, heedless of heavy losses. Eighth Army field commanders expected a fullscale assault on the ancient city at any hour.

President Syngman Rhee and his cabinet fled only a few hours before the onslaught.

Bread and Butter Is Hiked In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Bread and butter prices advanced today in the Pittsburgh market. Bread sold for a penny more in most groceries and wholesale butter was up two cents a pound.

Eggs took a drop of two cents a dozen, selling for 68 cents.

The butter increase was noted on the wholesale market where 60 pound tubs sold for 72 cents a pound. Local dealers said the price boost will be reflected here tomorrow.

A two cent rise would push butter prices to 77 cents a pound.

Penelec Plans Huge Expenditures On New Construction

Erie, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Pennsylvania Electric Company plans to spend $17,000,000 on new construction projects this year.

D. W. Jardine, Penelec president, says the projects are intended to keep ahead of the demand for electricity for civilian and defense needs.

Major projects will be continuation of work on the 63,250 kilowatt addition to the generation station here and start of work on a 161,000 kilowatt station at Shawville, near Clearfield.

Other work includes construction of new transmission and distribution lines, new and enlarged substations and improvements at generating stations and to other company facilities.

During 1950 the company spent $12,500,000 on new construction. Included was the completion of a 110,000 volt line connecting transmission facilities of Penelec with Metropolitan Edison Company making possible, for the first time, the interchange of electricity across the state of Pennsylvania.

Also completed was the $7,500,000 addition to the Seward generating station which provides 50,000 additional kilowatts of generating capacity.

CHILD FATALLY HURT IN IRWIN COLLISION

Irwin, Jan. 3.—(AP)—An auto-streetcar collision at nearby Pennnglyn fatally injured a three-year old girl and injured two other members of an Irwin family.

Dale Hanson, three, died early today. She was a passenger in an auto occupied by her grandmother, Mrs. Amy Ruth Fisher, 52, and Mrs. Fisher's son, Cameron Fisher, 28.

Coalition Of Republicans And Southern Democrats To Assert Grip on the House

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats made ready to assert with votes today its grip on the legislative machinery of the new house of representatives.

Barring a last-minute switch in strategy—and none was expected—the coalition planned to move shortly after the house convenes at noon to restore to the rules committee its old stranglehold on legislation.

The test comes on a move to change the rules which governed the house in the 81st congress that adjourned yesterday. Prior to 1948, house rules permitted the rules committee to pigeonhole almost indefinitely any bill the committee majority didn't

Communications with Seoul went dead at 2:35 p. m. (12:35 a. m. EST.)

But a dispatch by A.P. Correspondent Stan Swinton, filed via Eighth Army headquarters at 6:40 p. m., quoted frontline intelligence officers as saying the earlier attacks, although in force, "were on a preliminary to a final all out assault on Seoul's defenses."

Whole censored field dispatches identified Allied divisions engaged in the battle north of Seoul, Tokyo censors refused to let them be mentioned in the roundups.

Administration Accused By Governor Dewey Of Fumbling National Defense

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today accused the Truman administration of fumbling national defense and called upon the legislature to put New York state on an emergency war footing to cope with the "genuine possibility" of a "most savage" atomic attack.

The twice-defeated Republican presidential nominee told the lawmakers in his annual message that he hoped the state could mobilize for total defense without increasing taxes.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY

Pittsburgh, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Allegheny county detectives reported William F. Mathis, about 38, shot and killed himself last night after twice wounding his wife. She is in fair condition. The shooting occurred a quarter hour after Mathis had taken his wife to their Wick street home, following a six-day estrangement.

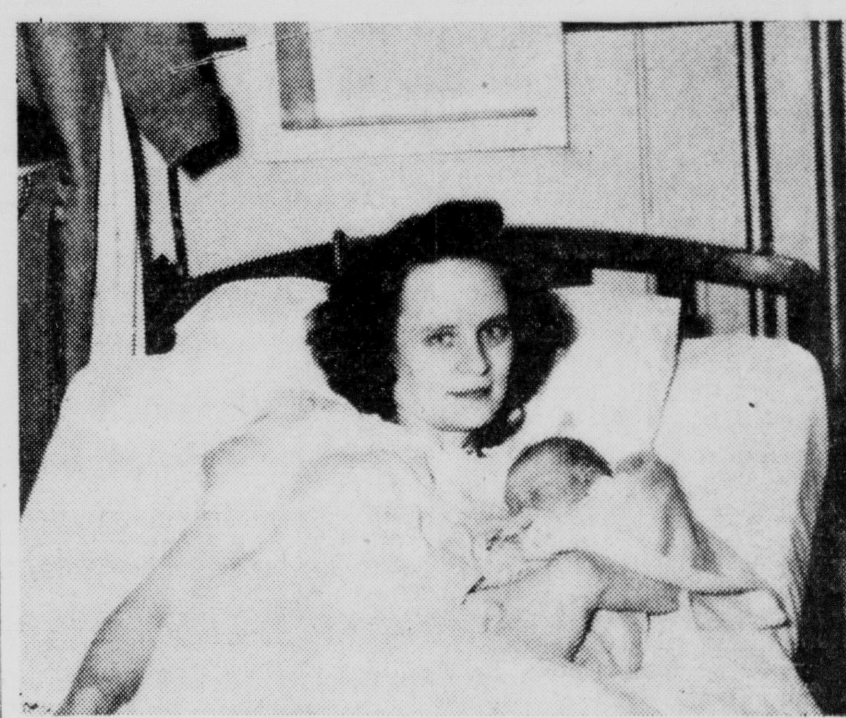

like. Dominated for years by Republicans and southern Democrats, the rules committee majority long has displayed a dislike for major administration domestic measures.

"When Democrats recaptured congress two years ago, they rammed through a change that limited to 21 days the rules committee's grip on bills approved by regular committees.

The new rule provided for the bypassing of the rules committee if it did not clear approved bills for house action within that time.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), a leader of the southern Democrats, prepared a motion to toss out the so-called 21-day rule and restore the old system.

Lawmakers Test Grass Roots Sentiments On Duff's Civil Defense Statements

Harrisburg, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's lawmakers tested "grass roots" sentiment today on Gov. James H. Duff's declaration that local communities will have to shoulder most of the load of civil defense.

The governor laid it on the line at the opening of the 1951 legislature yesterday that the federal and state governments couldn't assume the astronomical costs of such items as atomic bomb shelters.

The grim speech drew mixed reaction from Republican and Democratic legislators. GOP members lauded it as a keen analysis of the national emergency. Democrats questioned the extent that municipalities will be able to devise a bomb defenses.

ERIE BANK MERGER

Erie, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The First National Bank of Erie has asked the U. S. treasury to approve its absorption of the National Bank and Trust Company of Erie. Stockholders of National Bank and Trust also must approve the deal, which is expected to be completed about Feb. 1. National Bank and Trust will become a branch of First National, which is Erie county's oldest bank.

In a half-hour speech to a joint session of the senate and the house, Duff said:

"Every community must assume the individual responsibility of civil defense organization on its own basis to solve its own problem."

Duff, who will go to the U. S. senate after the inauguration of incoming Gov. John S. Fine Jan. 16, told the lawmakers, however, that the initiative will be theirs in coping with the privation that an a-bomb or biological warfare attack would bring.

"It will not be possible in America," he added, "to assure the citizens of a community immunity to the danger of the kind of attack we may expect at the outbreak of World War Three."

The lawmakers and a capacity throng of visitors heard the governor's address delivered on the heels of the organization of the 1951 legislature.

Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (R-Dauphin) was re-elected president pro tempore of the senate for a fourth term. A second term as speaker was given to Rep. Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk).

Both Taylor and Sorg said the job of choosing committees will be done in the interim between now and the next session of the lawmakers Jan. 15.

Selection of committees will touch off a flood of bills and resolutions to put the legislature at work. But it will not be until late February or early March—when Fine submits the budget for the two-year fiscal period starting June 1—that the lawmakers will get to discussion of financing civil defense and meeting other increased governmental expenses.

CLERICAL WORKERS OF BELL COMPANY STRIKE Philadelphia, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Some 2,700 clerical workers for the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania walked off their jobs today and threw up picket lines.

Some 700 of the girls put on a mass demonstration before the company's main office in Philadelphia and booed lustily as other, non-striking employees walked through their lines to go to work. Telephone services was not disrupted.

About 1,500 of the workers struck here, 800 in Pittsburgh and 400 in Harrisburg. They are demanding a pay increase.

The workers are members of the accounting organization of Pennsylvania telephone workers.

Gov. Duff Only New Senator Not Present To Be Sworn In During Opening Ceremonies

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The 82nd congress convened at noon today in colorfully refurbished chambers.

Crowded galleries, bright with feminine figures in their best finery, contributed a gay note as did the hand-shaking and exchange of greetings among the legislators on the floors.

But there was an atmosphere, too, of solemnity and tension, born of the feeling that the two-year life of this congress may be an era as trying as any in American history.

It was reflected in session-eve Democratic pleas for national unity and Republican demands that President Truman clarify his international aims.

Vice president Barkley banked down his gavel promptly at the noon hour to convene the senate. The senate chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, asked divine guidance for the legislators.

The vice president then began swearing in new senators, and those reelected to new six-year terms, in groups of four.

The only new senator not present was Republican Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania. He plans to delay taking his seat until after his term as governor expires in mid-January.

Just 38 minutes after convening, the senate recessed until Friday.

The old congress—which went out of existence yesterday—met for many months in temporary quarters while house and senate chambers were remodeled.

In the house, the members stood and recited the Lord's Prayer with their chaplain at the opening of the session.

All of the new members were sworn in at one time.

As everybody expected, Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat, was elected speaker. The Republicans nominated their floor leader, Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, and there was the formality of a roll call that brought a strict party line division.

Stronger in both houses because of their victories in the November elections, Republicans gave clear sign that they will move to force a reassessment—and some possible changes—in American relations with other countries.

Senator Taft of Ohio, scheduled the GOP policy committee, told a reporter he thinks the major problem of the new congress will be to "bring about a determination of military and foreign policies."

Taft foresaw congress' almost complete absorption with the issues of rearming against the threat of Soviet aggression—such questions as military appropriations, new taxes, economic controls and changes in the draft law.

He gave little chance for legislation to expand federal health, welfare, education and other activities, although he said he himself will offer measures of this kind.

Senator McFarland of Arizona, elected yesterday as Senate Democratic leader, told reporters he thinks the chief thing to be accomplished now is to achieve national unity.

One of the major battles of the new congress is expected to be fought over how much—if any—American aid should be given to these nations.

As the president already has outlined it from time to time, his program will call for increased taxes, changes in the draft law, probably more stringent economic controls at home and cut-backs in non-defense spending.

Increase In Tax Levy Of 4½ Mills Is Adopted To Provide Funds For New Expenditures

Warren borough councilmen, meeting at the Municipal building last night, tentatively approved an all-time record high budget for 1951, boosted salaries of most borough employees approximately $20 per month, and hiked the borough's real estate and occupation tax rate from 15 to 19½ mills. The borough's per capita tax of $5 per head also was continued.

The record high budget contemplates expenditures for 1951 totaling $268,000, or approximately $18 per person for each man, woman and child in the borough, based on an estimated 15,000 population.

The $268,000 figure for 1951 compares with $254,660 for the 1950 budget, $245,338 for 1949, and $179,471 for 1948.

To finance this record outlay of money for borough government, council proposes to continue the present 15 mill levy on real estate and occupations, based on an $11,500,000 valuation. The solons estimate this levy, plus $15,000 in taxes collected for prior years, will net the borough $170,000.

The budget makers also anticipate a $43,200 revenue from the per capita tax. This is based on an estimated 10,000 taxables (all persons in the borough over 21 years of age), less an estimated $6,800 which is deemed uncollectible.

The balance of the budget or $55,000, is expected to be realized through miscellaneous sources of revenue, as follows:

Beverage licenses—$7,150.
Building permits—$500.
Street permits—$750.
Business and mercantile licenses—$500.
Fines, forfeitures and costs—$7,500.
Gasoline tax from the state—$11,000.
Departmental earnings—$4,925.
Parking meter collections—$22,000.
Scales collections—$375.
Airport rental—$300.

Three mills of the 4½ mill boost in the tax rate on real estate and occupations will be earmarked for a sinking fund, and will be applied toward paying interest and retiring of a portion of the $200,000 bond issue which the borough floated last summer for street paving, bridge repair, sewer work and other general improvements. Council estimates the three mills will net the borough $31,000, of which $25,000 will be used for bond retirement and $4,950 will be used for interest. The bond issue will be completely retired over a ten-year period, and it is expected that the three mills for the sinking fund will be de-

Salary for the police chief was set at $305.50 per month.

The solons also accorded a permanent rating to Patrolman John Imperial, who has completed his 12-month probationary period, and authorized the Civil Service Commission to hold examinations to obtain a list of men eligible for appointment to the police and fire departments.

The Town Fathers reappointed Howard Laufenberger to a five-year term on the Board of Health; re-elected Tracy M. Greenlund as police justice; and re-hired Herman Ecklund as custodian of the Municipal building.

Glade Township Boy Dies of Fractured Skull Sustained While at Play In Barn

"KENNY" KAGEL

The Christmas vacation came to a tragic end Tuesday afternoon for little Kenny Kagel, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kagel, Fifth avenue extension, when he received a fatal head injury in a fall while at play with a companion, Johnny Marymont, in the large barn on the Kagel farm.

According to information given by the family Kenny and Johnny were enjoying themselves about 12:30 o'clock, on the second floor of the huge barn, part of which is covered with wooden flooring, over the main entrance, while there is a section to the right without a floor where the hay is stored. It appears that Kenny either jumped into or stepped on a section covered with hay, but with no boards supporting it underneath, permitting him to drop a distance of 13 feet to the wooden floor beneath. It could not be determined whether he struck his head on something on the descent, or if the impact was responsible, but it was discovered later by a physician who was called, that he had sustained a fracture of the skull.

His father carried him into the house, and for a time he insisted he was not badly injured and was suffering no pain. Later, however, he lapsed into unconsciousness, and plans were being made to speed him to a hospital in Erie for treatment by a specialist, when he passed away about 3:45 o'clock. A certificate of death from fractured skull accidentally received was issued by Coroner Ed Lowrey.

Kenneth Alfred Kagel was born in Warren August 18, 1942, the son of Alfred and Lucille Sandrock Kagel, and had spent his entire lifetime in this community. He was a member of the First Lutheran Sunday school.

Besides his parents, he leaves a sister, Emily, at home; his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Sandrock, Oil City.

New Bill Raises Tax Collections To Highest Figure

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—President Truman signed today the new $3,300,000,000 tax bill, slapping a 77 per cent super-levy on corporation "excess profits."

It lifts the nation's tax collections to the highest dollar figure in history, but Mr. Truman said "the tax ahead of us will require more and much heavier taxes."

He added in a statement: "I shall, in due course, submit to the congress recommendations for substantial tax increases."

Even before congress completed action on this bill, Mr. Truman had made known he would ask still further revenue-raising measures from the new congress.

Treasury experts are studying various possibilities. They have given out no details, but individuals, whose income taxes were raised last Oct. 1, may be called on to pay still larger levies.

The administration's aim is to put America's resistance to communist aggression as near as possible on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Mr. Truman, who had asked that this bill hike taxes by $4,000,000,000, was critical of some of its provisions.

He said some features of the new measure will probably give an undue advantage to some corporations "especially in relation to the tax burdens necessarily borne by others."

Discarded Trees Are Appearing On Sheffield Streets

Sheffield, Jan. 3—That the Christmas holidays were over for another year was evidenced today by the many discarded Christmas trees placed in front of homes along every street. Sheffield Girl Scout troops had requested that Sheffielders leave their trees along the streets today so that Fitch & Camp Disposal Service might collect them for the huge Twelfth Night ceremony Friday evening which features the burning of the greens. The program is to take place at Memorial Playground at 6:30 p. m. that evening.

Members of the Ladies Bible Class of Barnes Methodist church, have scheduled a meeting for tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Anna Titus.

An interesting get-together is planned for this initial meeting of the new year.

Warm rains throughout the night melted away much of the record snow which has kept piling up since the big snow storm on Thanksgiving night. No danger of high water appeared imminent today, although it is expected that waters in the Tionesta Creek and Two Mile Run will rise rapidly if the warm weather continues.

An organizational meeting of the various Civilian Defense unit leaders is scheduled for this evening in the township building. Local defense coordinator, Frank Handyside will preside at the session. The meeting is expected to result in a call for numerous volunteers to fill the many local civilian defense duties.

WAXMAN'S
FOR FINE FURNITURE

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Jan. 3—(AP)—It happens every two years when a new congress takes over. Today it's the 82nd moving in. Fanfare. Lights. Maybe speeches. Then the grind begins.

It's the grind that gets the work done, not the speeches. True, this is an important congress with the world unsteady as it is. Maybe the future of this country and even the world depends on what the 82nd Congress does, or doesn't do.

True, the place will sizzle with opinions on whether this country should work side by side with allies around the world or withdraw behind the cold ramparts of the Atlantic and Pacific.

But the members of Congress won't exhaust themselves on that subject. You can look ahead for two years, day by day, days that seem endless, full of speeches.

Some will make the papers. Some will be too utterly dull for mention.

And there'll be fights, feuds, and politicking.

But behind all that, and much less conspicuous, is the real work: the committee hearings, the backbone of Congress. Some are sensational. Most are dull, but necessary, most of the time.

Not much these first few days of the congress. Next Monday President Truman delivers his State of the Union message to Congress, to be followed by his budget message.

That budget—the estimate of what it will cost to run the government another year and pay or defend—is where the work begins.

For months the government re-arrangement and agencies have been working on the budget, each on its own part of the budget. They're supposed to figure the minimum money they need to keep running. Then the budget bureau experts go over the figures with them to try to cut the expenses further. Then the president wraps up the finished product and tosses it to congress.

Then the parade begins: The heads of the departments and agencies troop up to the capitol to tell the house and senate appropriations committees why they think they need so much.

These hearings go on for months, with the committees trying to cut the figures further. In other years congress made a great to-do when it thought it could chop off a few million here or there.

And this year there'll be more fuss than ever over economy-in-government here at home since this is an unusual year and the same congress will have to pile billions on billions for defense.

Sylvania President Predicts Better Business In 1951

New York—Business for 1951 will exceed that of 1950, says Don G. Mitchell, president of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., in his annual forecast, just issued, which contains in part as follows:

"Sylvania Electric Products Inc. will close 1950 with a volume of sales in excess of $150,000,000, which will represent an increase of better than 50 per cent over the previous year. At the same time Sylvania will carry over into the new year close to $70,000,000 of unfilled orders.

"In spite of the large backlog, some reduction in the going-rate of production is anticipated during the first half of 1951, as the result of restrictions on the use of critical materials and the lag time between placement of defense orders and full speed production. However, it is expected that the business for the full year of 1951 will be considerably more than that in 1950.

"Additional factory space will be needed, plans for which have been under way for some time. In this connection it is our intention to follow our policy of decentralization of manufacturing in small plants.

"In order to alleviate the problem of material shortages, our engineers and laboratories have for several months been seeking substitute materials and methods that could be used without reducing product quality.

"Demand for radio receiving tubes and television picture tubes was at record levels throughout 1950 with some softening in picture tube demand as the year closed.

"Television set sales were higher for the year than had been estimated initially and demand should continue strong as long as it is possible to secure the necessary materials to make them since it is fairly obvious that set production will diminish as the year progresses.

"Sales of flash bulbs have been unusually high all year and shipments should continue heavy for several months provided there are no enforced cutbacks.

"Incandescent and fluorescent lamp sales set new peaks and should continue strong throughout 1951. Lighting fixture demand became very heavy during the last half of the year. A greatly expanded industrial building activity in 1951 is expected to keep our lighting fixture operations going at a high rate.

"As the result of national defense preparations the demand for electronic equipment is growing rapidly and will be even greater in 1951. Our plans call for rapid expansion of our electronics production facilities."

CHECK DEFENSE EXPENDITURES

It's being proposed that Congress create a committee paralleling the famed Truman Senate War Investigating Committee which saved American taxpayers many millions of dollars during and after World War II.

True enough, we are not now at war. But we are appropriating record peacetime sums for defense. Responsible leaders believe we must keep a close check on how that money is spent. They argue that past experience demonstrates that fraud and waste are otherwise unavoidable.

No standing committees and no existing special committees in Congress now perform that function. Nor do any have the time, the staff or the money to do the job.

In the special field, the nearest thing to that kind of group is the Senate Johnson Committee. Its task, however, is to keep a weather eye on the country's preparedness effort and speak out whenever it discerns a dangerous lag.

The regular House and Senate appropriations committees may manage some investigation into expenditures as part of their job of voting funds. But essentially they must concern themselves with plans for new outlays rather than with what has happened to older ones.

Because money wisely and honestly spent on defense contracts is translated into badly needed tanks and guns and planes, the careful policing of arms spending is plainly a matter of calling for a statesmanlike, non-political approach.

As the plan is now being considered, that objective seems clearly in view. Senator Ferguson, Michigan Republican who played a key role in the old Truman Committee, is suggesting a 10-member group evenly divided between the major parties. Should the House set up its own group or take part in a joint committee, a similar division is a strong possibility.

When the average citizen recalls the scandals and often colossal waste uncovered by the Truman Committee, he must look forward impatiently to the creation of a new watchdog committee to safeguard his tax money today.

Once a defense program really gets rolling, its size and speed of operation inevitably bring waste in their train and provide powerful temptation to men seeking a big killing.

Just the mere fact that a special investigating committee exists would act as a deterrent to fraud and a spur to efficiency. For every man involved in a defense contract would know that any slip he might make could easily be front-page news in some future congressional hearing.

There seems good reason why the creation of such a committee is regarded by top Washington lawmakers as a basic part of our defense structure.

89,000 FATALITIES IN 1950

Accidents claimed approximately 89,000 lives in the United States during 1950, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians estimate. This is about the same number as in 1949.

Fatalities in motor vehicle accidents, however, increased from 31,500 in 1949 to about 35,000 in 1950—a development viewed as "disturbing" by the statisticians. These accidents accounted for 40 percent of all fatal mishaps for the year.

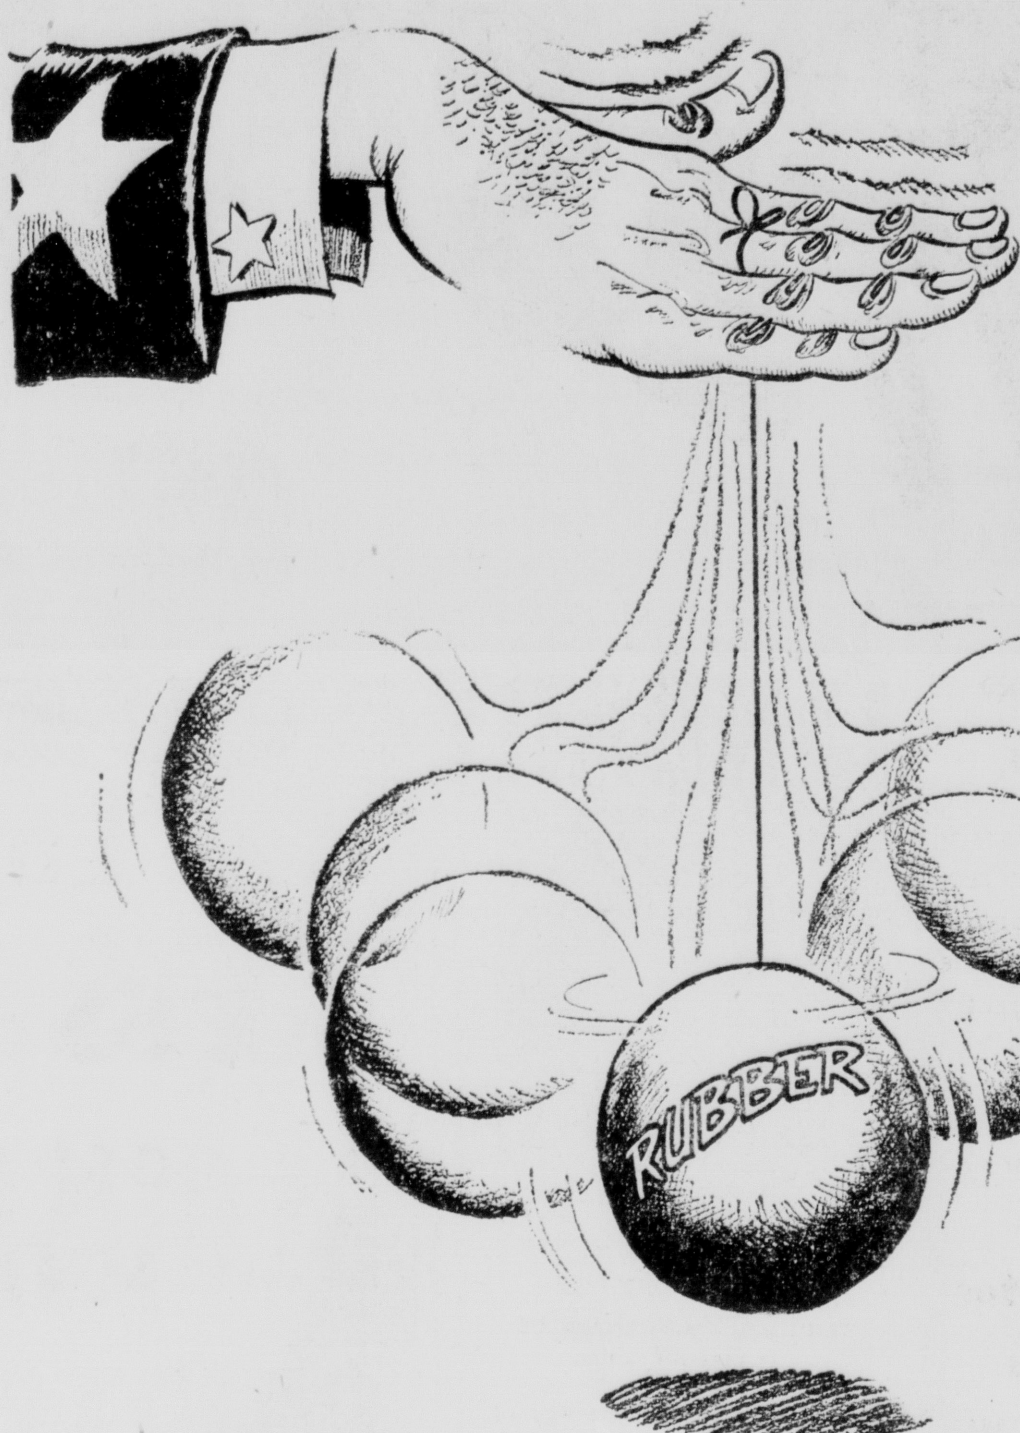

"There is little consolation in the explanation that the rise was accompanied by an increase in motor vehicle mileage to a record high" the statisticians maintain. "The facts point to a need for intensification of the safety campaign to promote better driving habits and to improve traffic control."

Accidents in and about the home, down from 1949, caused approximately 27,000 deaths. There were about 15,500 deaths from occupational accidents, including occupational motor vehicle fatalities, which is a slight increase over the 1949 figure. Deaths in public accidents (except motor vehicle) are estimated at around 13,000.

Fatal accidents continue to be a blot on our national health record because many of them, according to the Metropolitan statisticians, are preventable.

So far as the wallet of John Q. Public in Warren is concerned it seems to be a race between the borough council, state legislature and congress to see which can get there the deepest for the most in the form of tax levies.

Uncle Sam Takes the Ball

Here And There

From Jim Marker, former boss of the Evening Mirror composing room, a resident for a number of years of the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, we receive an interesting card in the form of a greeting for the season, containing also the Christmas menu, and an appropriate poem. Jim suggests, in a note on the front cover: "Here's a list of what we share on Christmas. A good filler for your Here and There!"

On the first page inside we find a poem with the caption: "Today . . . And Throughout the Year: 'To be alive in such an age! With every year a lightning page, touched in the world's great wonder book, whereon the leaning nations look. When men speak strong for brotherhood, for peace and universal good, when miracles are everywhere, and every inch of common air, throbs a tremendous prophecy of greater marvels yet to be.'"—Angela Morgan.

The Christmas menu, printed under a quotation which reads, "Can we have too much of a good thing?" follows:

Breakfast—Fresh orange juice, hominy grits, assorted cold cereals, bacon and eggs, Christmas stollen coffee cake, coffee, tea, milk, cocoa.

Luncheon—Cream of oyster soup with oyster crackers, Welsh rabbit, toast, kumquat salad, cold English plum pudding, hard sauce, coffee, tea, milk.

Dinner—Cream of tomato soup with croissants, spiced, celery hearts, mixed olives, roast young Colorado turkey with chestnut dressing, giblet gravy, fresh cranberry sauce, sweet potato glaze or creamed whipped potatoes, buttered garden peas, fruit salad, parkerhouse rolls, ice cream, fruit cake, coffee, tea, milk.

And below the menu is printed the following poem: "Life's a pudding full of plums; Care's a canker that benumbs, Wherefore waste our elocution, On impossible solution? Life's a pleasant institution, Let us take it as it comes!"—Gilbert.

Thanks, Jim! Come again!

This And That: Skinner's pond, in Pleasant township, across the river from the airport, is a popular center for devotees of ice skating, which reminds us that ten years ago there was an indoor ice skating rink at Clarendon . . .

Lyle Schuler, news writer for the Times-Mirror and Youngsville reporter for Radio Station WNAE made his annual appearance as guest announcer Monday when he broadcast the daily news from "the biggest little town on the map," and as usual did a very creditable job. . . .

Conflicting activities have made it necessary for those in charge of the Burning of the Greens Saturday evening to make a shift in arrangements so far as participation of some of those on the program is concerned. . . . Complete sell-out of space, indicating a sure-fire success of the Jamestown Midwinter Fair, has been revealed by Clyde Thrall, first vice president of the Chautauqua County Poultry and Pet Stock Association in an announcement regarding the three-day exhibit which opens January 11 at the Jamestown Armory. . . .

Work of taking down the carnival yuletide lights that decorated the borough during the Christmas season will not be completed until the coming weekend, so as to make it possible for the volunteer electricians and linemen to complete the project in daylight instead of working after dark; the wires and bulbs will be carefully stored away for use another year when it is expected that many more will be added. . . . An unusually long growing season of 166 days marked 1950 in this area, statistics compiled by Howard M. Levy of Titusville, reveal; he says the last heavy spring frost was May 8 and the first heavy frost of fall was on October 21. . . .

Congress Leadership Fights Underline Parties' Splits

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Two battles for leadership dominate the first day of the new Congress—one in each party. The thing to watch for is to see if they have the gumption to pick first-rate men, or whether the jobs go to second stringers.

The Democrats have to pick a new majority floor leader to succeed the defeated Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois.

The Republicans have to pick a new member for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to fill a vacancy caused by GOP gains in the last election.

In time of crisis, when the country needs the highest caliber of leadership it can get, you would think that there would be unanimous consent to give the honors to the greatest statesmen. What you get instead is a conspiracy of factions, playing petty politics all over the place, vying with each other to see what compromise can be effected. This usually results in giving the job to the greatest mediocrity.

Among the Democrats, the name of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois stands out for fair-mindedness and for the great fight he made—though he lost it—to cut pork barrel spending out of the last rivers and harbors bill. Similarly, the name of Estes Kefauver of Tennessee stands out for his crime investigation.

Neither name was mentioned in the early winter book-making for the Senate leadership race. The names of Senators John Sparkman of Alabama and Clinton Anderson of New Mexico did come up, but both indicated they didn't want the job.

ALL four of these men are first-term senators, which is of course against them in an institution where seniority counts even more than it does in the armed services or a labor union.

But among the two-or-more-termers there were men like Fulbright of Arkansas or McMahon of Connecticut who had made their marks in foreign relations. Neither got more than a mention.

So what develops is that, through deals that can only be guessed at, the name of Sen. Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona comes up with advance promises of 35 of the 49 votes for the Democratic majority leadership. He is another Scott Lucas. He is no doubt a faithful public servant for the people of Arizona, having been re-elected once. But his record in the Senate is almost a blank for major accomplishment.

The Republican race for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee vacancy has been between other horses of the same colors. With Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in ill health and likely to be absent much of the time, you would think the GOP would want to put forward its ablest man. But what develops is a free-for-all.

INDEPENDENT Republican Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon seemed to have the inside of the track. Immediately after his re-election in November, he produced letters from Senator Vandenberg indicating that he—Morse—should have the place he had long wanted.

But opposition immediately developed from more conservative Republicans. Morse has frequently been denied party privilege for his irregularity. This time his colleagues got busy in an effort to stop him cold.

If the conservative Republicans had wanted to put their ablest man on the Foreign Relations Committee, they would have chosen Senator Taft. But the Ohio Republican indicated he did not want the job and preferred to stay outside where he could criticize more freely.

In the hunt for someone else, the Republicans considered candidates ranging all the way from Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana, an outright isolationist, to Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, another independent, who wouldn't be so bad, though he would cut Morse out from the honor.

BETA SIGMA PHI CHRISTMAS PARTY

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held its annual Christmas dinner at the Blue and White Restaurant, with a table attractively decorated in a holiday theme and a centerpiece made of a white cotton powder box which contained tiny gifts, revealing the names of the members' new "secret pals" for the coming year. During dinner, a telegram was received from the sorority's director, Doretta Jacobson, who is vacationing in the south, the message relating her Christmas wishes for the group.

After a delicious ham dinner, members adjourned to the home of Maxine Myers for an evening of dub's bridge. Prizes went to Ebba Caldwell for high score and to Mary Brown for low. "Secret pals" of last year disclosed their names as gifts were exchanged during the evening. To conclude, the hostess was assisted by her social committee in serving Christmas cookies and tarts.

A 'Pretty Nice Face, Once' Can Be Your Lifelong Friend

"WELL," said the rather plump and pleasant looking woman staring ruefully in a beauty shop mirror, "it was a pretty nice face once. But I guess it served its purpose. It gave me a good time when I was growing up. It got me a husband—the one I wanted."

"I guess it did enough for me, before it got to looking like this." That's about as good a philosophy as any for the woman whose mirror is no longer reassuring. So the face that was once young and fresh has lost some of its color and firmness, and a few wrinkles have moved in. Tragic? No, not if you stop to consider what it did for you while it was young.

It carried you through the period when you hadn't much else to depend on but looks, didn't it? It was a pretty good friend when you needed it most.

Now, perhaps, you can't count on it for much any more—not just by itself, that is.

LET IT RELAX

BUT it will still be your friend, if you'll help it out. Let it relax instead of tightening it up in annoyance, envy, impatience. See to it that it expresses you at your best—a gay, warm-hearted, happy, out-going interested you.

So don't waste any time worrying because that face of yours is no longer a girl's face, pretty enough to get you by without much effort on your part.

Give it a little help and it will still be your friend. But don't forget that now what you are like is more important than what your face is like.

And don't sigh over it. Remember it helped you get a lot of things you wanted. You ought to be able to hold on to them without too much dependence on that face of yours.

For GOOD-ness Sake

By Betty Rice

Included in the nation-wide prayers for peace as a New Year came into being, was a heart-felt recognition of the service being rendered by our men in the armed forces and by the hundreds of blood donors throughout America. Warren may well feel proud of the role it plays in the blood program and those men and women who have already given a pint of blood can explain the wonderful feeling that accompanies the gesture.

Judging from the number of healthy citizens who have not, as yet, volunteered as blood donors, it seems likely that they fail to grasp the significance of the program itself. For if they did understand they would have volunteered long ago. At the present writing, whole blood is being used extensively throughout our country in hospitals in every participating area. There is no charge for Red Cross blood and it is available to any person desiring its use providing the attending physician agrees. There is a small hospital laboratory fee and there may be a physician's fee . . . BUT THE BLOOD ITSELF is absolutely free.

In addition to use for civilian needs, Red Cross in a response to demands made by the Department of Defense, has included in area quotas, enough blood to provide for armed force needs in Korea and it is generally known that as in World War II, blood has played a most important part in cutting down wartime casualties.

Thus, realizing that whole blood saves lives everywhere and knowing that the time may come when you'll need it yourself or it will be needed for a loved one, don't hesitate—make your date to give a pint of blood on Wednesday, January 10 at 404 Market Street in Warren. Other folks have given again and again—why don't you try just once? Phone 2926 for an appointment.

READY AND WAITING—Cpl. H. E. Whiddon, of DeRidder, La., stands beside a dual-purpose twin 20 mm. ack-ack gun in a valley outside the contested UN beachhead of Hungnam, in Korea.

WATER PARTY—Contrasting with the widely publicized bathing beauties for which Las Vegas, Nev., is famous, is this group of athletic males. They're having an informal fun session playing water polo with a king-size ball.

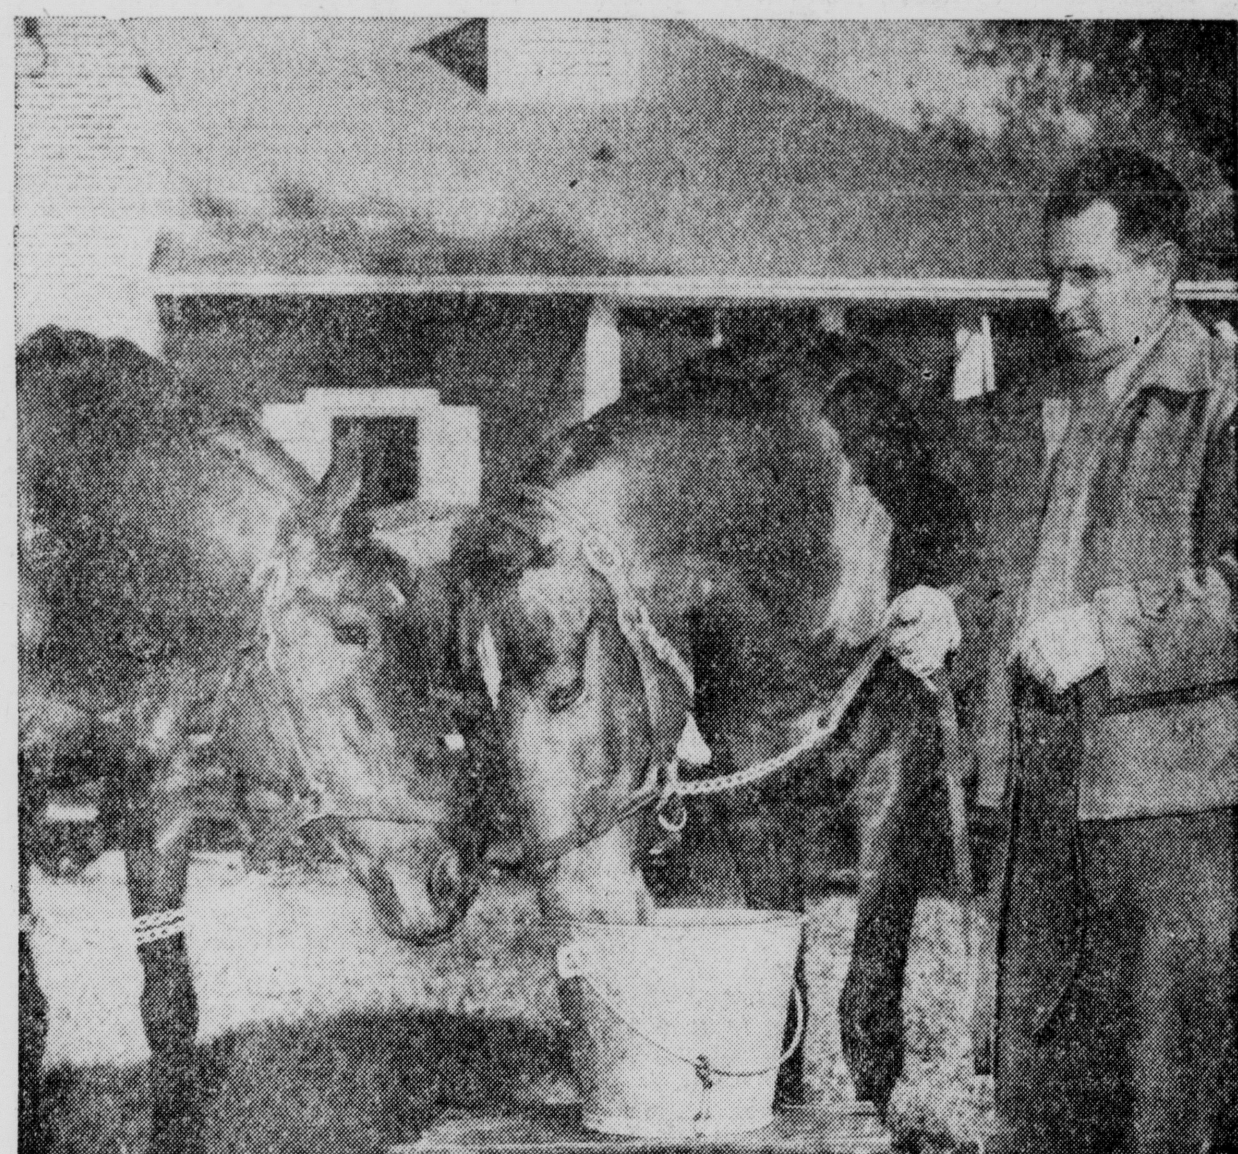

HE CHANGED HIS MIND—A few weeks ago, 14-year-old Michael Calfi, of Oakmont, Pa., said he wanted to die. Mike had been severely burned last summer, but thanks to encouragement he's received, he's changed his mind. Nurse Joanne Carroll is holding a scroll in a Pittsburgh hospital sent to Michael by the Dubuque, Ia., Boys Club which makes him an honorary member.

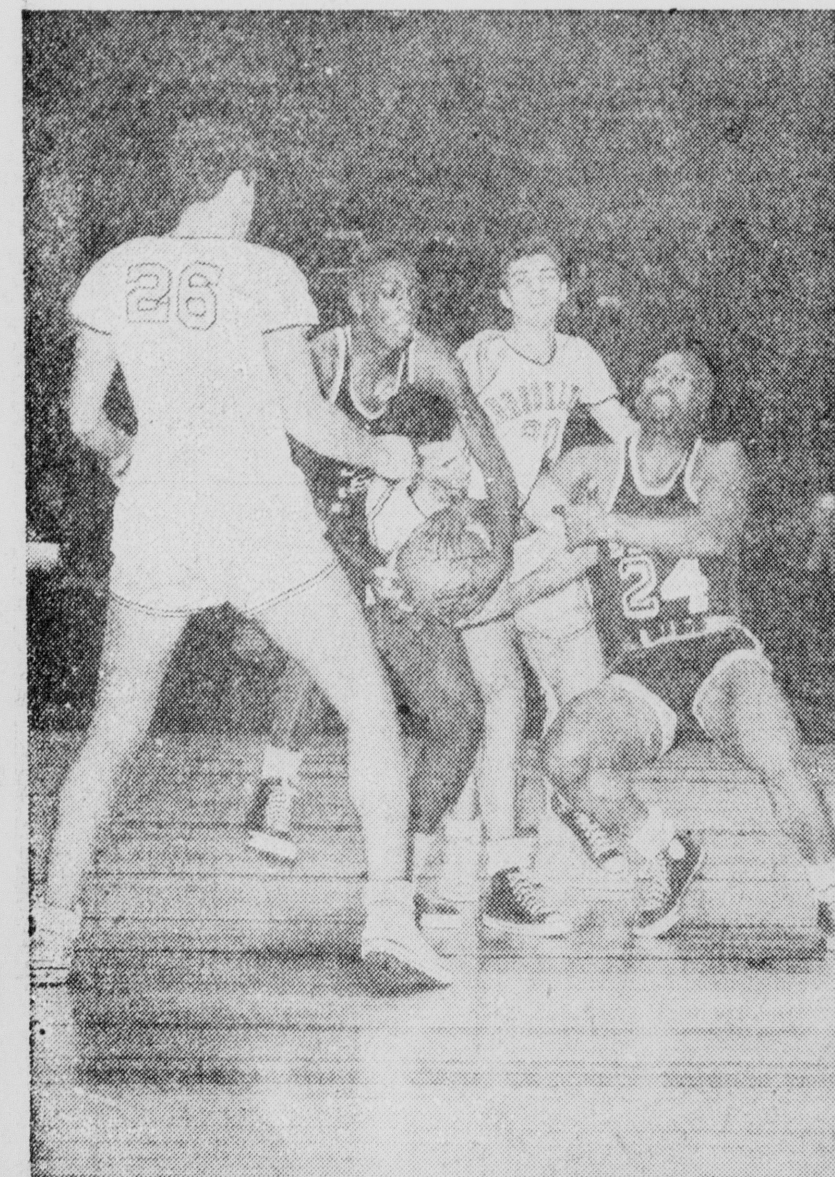

NEW LOCOMOTION—Designed and constructed by engineers of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, this 4000 horsepower gas turbine locomotive, in Pittsburgh, Pa., is the last word in "iron horses." Two gas turbine units are used to drive generators that feed electric power to motors on the wheels. The new rail giant is scheduled for extensive field tests and actual revenue service.

FAMILY REUNION—Sgt. Anthony Frederick has a whole staff of porters, and all in the family, helping him with his luggage on his arrival at Southampton, England, after nearly three years in Singapore with the Royal Army Medical Corps. Frederick's wife, Morny, left, and four daughters; Averill, nine; Mareline, seven; Toni, five, and Ann, three, seem as happy as he is.

FATHER AND SON—Trainer Eddie Barnes watches the eight-year-old Chilean race horse, Quemadito (left), supervising the feeding of his unnamed yearling in Miami, Fla. The two horses may make racing history at Hialeah Park this winter if the thoroughbreds both win races on the same day.

WHO HAS IT?—The referee has a problem in deciding which man has possession of the ball in this quaint melee during the CCNY-Brooklyn tussle at Madison Square Garden. The three active participants with hands on the ball are: CCNY's Floyd Layne (3, black); an unidentified Brooklyn player (white); and CCNY's Harold Hill (24). CCNY took the game, 64-40.

HOME AGAIN—Shown arriving in New York after two years in Europe is Norma Shearer, one of filmdom's great stars a few years back. There are rumors to the effect that Miss Shearer will again face the cameras in Hollywood in the not-too-distant future.

BEAUTY FOR CANVAS—Starlet Cleo Moore, in Hollywood, Calif., is something to send the old masters running for their canvas. She makes a picture against the back of a canvas chair, and even a proper frame couldn't do much to heighten her charms.

KNICKER-KNOCKER—Lush red velvet makes a luxurious lounging costume. Called a knicker-knocker in Paris, the suit has a red and white pique facing to match the ascot-tied kerchief. It buttons at cuff and calf.

FIND HITLER'S PAPERS—Dr. Auerbach, in charge of the land restitution office in Munich, Germany, inspects some of Hitler's documents recently captured by the city's secret police. Warren High Basketball Thump Kane, 1-43, To Avenge Early Season Setback

Warren High Dragons feathered their nest with an eight point margin in the opening period on a Beatty floor and then romped an inspiring victory over the Kane Wolves.

The Massena played heads-up all most of the game as they took up their sixth win of the season against three losses. Meeting the Wolves for the seventh time in the history of the two schools, the Dragons also averaged a 48-35 setback at Kane December 19.

Using pressing tactics from the start, the Warren five kept the Wolves on their toes constantly, and froze the ball several times during the game to hold onto a cable lead. The local boys led from the start and the closest game could get in each of the last three periods was four points.

John Berardi, the little, but Oh! Warren forward, stole scoring honors with a blistering 17 points, topping eight and scoring one from the charity stripe. Bob Hampson and Paul Gordon were next in line with 13 and 12, respectively. For the Wolves, it was Jim Cronin and Don Frase who paced with 13 and 12.

Over eagerness on the part of both teams to get the ball, resulted in the removing of Keith Weiser in the final period with too many personal fouls. The Warren boys also had fans on the edge of their seats, each of the starting five having committed four fouls, with the exception of Gordon, who had three.

Berardi started the scoring in the first quarter with a twin-counter. Keith Weiser contributed one from the free-throw mark and Gordon made it 4-1. A second free throw was made by Sagramosa, but Bob Foley, Gordon and Berardi hit in succession to build the eight point lead mid-way in the opening period.

Half-way in the second sector a free throw by Gordon put the Blue and White out in front by 10 points, 24-14. Don Frase connected twice for four points, but Berardi and Bob Hampson picked up four more to match it. With 26 seconds remaining, Ken Carlson cut the Dragons lead to four points with a field goal and free toss. By the time the half ended, Gordon gathered in five against Cronin's one to leave the Massena still eight to the good.

With about three minutes gone in the second half, Cronin hit with two double-counters, making it 35-31. Working a fast break, Hampson picked up two and Berardi four to remove any danger. Scoring see-sawed in the last two minutes of the period, Foley dropping in a long one to end things, 45-36.

Only 13 points were tallied in the final section, the Hilltoppers making seven of them. Kulka, Cronin and Frase, on a field goal and three foul shots, threw a scare into the game as they whittled the Dragons lead to four points for the third time. Hampson and Weiser matched scoring. Then with two minutes left, Hampson ripped the nets again, followed by Berardi with a layup to place the game on ice, 51-43.

Fouls were committed by each team in the less than two minutes remaining, both choosing to take the ball out of bounds and neither scoring.

Meyer Talked Turkey; Is Now Rickey's Man in Pittsburgh

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Branch Rickey long respected William Adam Meyer as one of the superior managers, but feared he might have lost control of the Pittsburgh club.

Besides, Billy Meyer had another year to go on a $40,000 contract. Meyer, who developed practically all of the Yankees as their minor league pilot for a period of 16 years, was Mahatma Rickey's man in Pittsburgh when he laid his cards on the table.

"You give me the players and I'll run the club," the little Tennessee farmer told the dynamic Rickey.

"When I tell you I can't use a certain fellow I want your support. You stand behind me and my club won't have any disciplinary problems."

It was spoken like the real baseball man that is Meyer, the old catcher and confidant of Joe McCarthy, and President Rickey liked it. He stuck out his hand and said: "Bill, you're my man."

"Rickey wanted to know about the discipline on my club," explains Meyer. "He heard it wasn't good last season, and it wasn't."

"I suspected I was going to be fired, anyway, and it wouldn't have made any difference if I hadn't felt that way. I simply fired the facts with both barrels, and let it go at that. I never did believe in beating around the bush."

RICKEY has the reputation of meddling with the situation on the field, suggesting switches, that certain pitchers pitch, etc.

"I asked Rickey about those reports," says Meyer. "He said it wasn't true, asked me to check with Frank Frisch, Leo Durocher, Burt Shotton or any other manager who worked under him."

"Running the team is your department," Rickey told Meyer. "I'll run the office."

Meyer reveals that one day last summer, while the Pirates were in the dumpy basement, a particularly atrocious piece of base-running aroused Banker McKinney's ire.

The game finished, McKinney turned to John W. Galbreath, seated beside him in a front row box, and said: "I'm going down there and fire that guy."

"No you're not," replied Galbreath. "This was one of the things that led to McKinney selling his interest to Galbreath, the real estate tycoon."

Pittsburgh baseball wasn't big enough to hold both Galbreath and McKinney, moneyed men who like and can afford to have their own way.

It could be big enough for Branch Rickey and Billy Meyer. Both have a thorough understanding of the game.

Louis Favored To Win Easily Over Beshore Tonight

Detroit, Jan. 3.—(P)—Former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis takes another major step in his comeback campaign tonight when he goes looking for a quick knockout over durable Freddie Beshore in a 10-rounder here.

Louis ruled a solid 4-1 favorite over the Harrisburg, Pa., navy veteran. Beshore claims he has not been knocked off his feet in 45 pro fights.

The fight fraternity was impressed with Louis' aggressive training program, which brought him down to a well-conditioned 212—his lowest fighting weight since the first Joe Walcott match in 1947.

Louis was unusually severe on his sparring partners as he sharpened up his right hand punching in preparation for Beshore. The Louis camp reported Joe feels he has to win by a knockout tonight to restore some of his prestige as the "Brown Bomber" of old.

The 35-year-old Louis was stung by criticisms of his last two fights against heavyweight king Ezzard Charles and Cesar Brion of Argentina.

Intimates reported he promised then to flatten Beshore in a hurry to prove he still can punch with the best heavyweights in the business.

Louis took careful note of the fact that it took Charles until the 14th round to stop Beshore on a TKO when Beshore was badly cut.

The 25-year-old Beshore—who will spot Louis a 23 pound edge—was calmly confident that his body attack would wear Louis down and get him a decision.

The IBC fight card is expected to draw about 11,000 fans due in part to the nominal $6 top ticket figure. It will be broadcast and telecast.

There the herd riders would swing out, circle the bunches, and turn them into the main herd, held on the creek. Once in the big herd, the edge would leave them and, if they got too tough, the riders would start them milling and hold them in that manner.

From a high butte, Buck scanned his riders. They were scattered all over the range, dark moving dots in the distance. Strange premonitions touched the lanky cowboy. This was a rough, tough country—ambush country.

But he shrugged these thoughts aside. When he rode into camp at noon, his horse lathered and leg-weary, quite a herd grazed on the creek bottom.

Mack Bodkin had prepared a fine dinner. They'd butchered a steer the night before, and the boiled beef and soup hit the spot. Buck ate, sitting cross-legged, his

"Well, we got a few head, no?" Buck nodded and leaned back, his eyes closed. The sun felt good and lassitude crept into him.

"Yeah," he murmured, "a few." He got to his feet, took his rope, went to the corral and snagged a big gelding. "No rest for the saddle-tired, Tortilla."

"We need dogs," declared Tortilla. "They'd help," Buck admitted. "Some of that brush is pretty thick down there. These cattle are wild—they don't hide."

Tortilla took his jackknife and peeled the thick mud from his chaps. Riders were moving across the hills, riding the rimrock and the tips. Cattle were moving out of the high country. They were heading down, moving along gullies and coulees, unconsciously working down to the level country, the creek bed.

His gaunt face grim and determined, the tall cowboy choused the wild cattle from the brush. Never once, in the long, grueling hours in the saddle, did his vigilance relax. The scent of trouble was in the high, fresh air, and his nostrils were quick to detect it.

The sun slowly arced, lifting the chill from the dawn air. Buck would run the cattle from the brush, his rope, and papping, and start them down the slope where Tortilla Joe would push them on. By this time, the steam and fire would be gone from the bunch, and they would hurry down to the creek bottom.

Chapter 14
TORTILLA JOE'S brone had slid on a slant, and the Mexican was muddy and angry when he met Buck on the rimrock.

"Yeah," he murmured, "a few." He got to his feet, took his rope, went to the corral and snagged a big gelding. "No rest for the saddle-tired, Tortilla."

"We need dogs," declared Tortilla. "They'd help," Buck admitted. "Some of that brush is pretty thick down there. These cattle are wild—they don't hide."

Tortilla took his jackknife and peeled the thick mud from his chaps. Riders were moving across the hills, riding the rimrock and the tips. Cattle were moving out of the high country. They were heading down, moving along gullies and coulees, unconsciously working down to the level country, the creek bed.

His gaunt face grim and determined, the tall cowboy choused the wild cattle from the brush. Never once, in the long, grueling hours in the saddle, did his vigilance relax. The scent of trouble was in the high, fresh air, and his nostrils were quick to detect it.

The sun slowly arced, lifting the chill from the dawn air. Buck would run the cattle from the brush, his rope, and papping, and start them down the slope where Tortilla Joe would push them on. By this time, the steam and fire would be gone from the bunch, and they would hurry down to the creek bottom.

There the herd riders would swing out, circle the bunches, and turn them into the main herd, held on the creek. Once in the big herd, the edge would leave them and, if they got too tough, the riders would start them milling and hold them in that manner.

From a high butte, Buck scanned his riders. They were scattered all over the range, dark moving dots in the distance. Strange premonitions touched the lanky cowboy. This was a rough, tough country—ambush country.

But he shrugged these thoughts aside. When he rode into camp at noon, his horse lathered and leg-weary, quite a herd grazed on the creek bottom.

Mack Bodkin had prepared a fine dinner. They'd butchered a steer the night before, and the boiled beef and soup hit the spot. Buck ate, sitting cross-legged, his back to the wagon wheel. Tortilla Joe squatted on his haunches a few feet away, his dark eyes anxious.

"Well, we got a few head, no?" Buck nodded and leaned back, his eyes closed. The sun felt good and lassitude crept into him.

"Yeah," he murmured, "a few." He got to his feet, took his rope, went to the corral and snagged a big gelding. "No rest for the saddle-tired, Tortilla."

"We need dogs," declared Tortilla. "They'd help," Buck admitted. "Some of that brush is pretty thick down there. These cattle are wild—they don't hide."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"Sometimes I'm glad when all of the cards are badly placed," said Hard Luck Joe. "Then there's no possibility that I could have guessed right and played the hand some other way."
Joe was referring to the hand he had just played. He was sure that all of the cards were wrong for him, but his partner had a different opinion.
West opened the jack of clubs, and dummy won with the ace. Joe next took the ace and king of spades, exhausting trumps. Crossing his fingers for good luck, Joe then led a diamond from dummy and played the king from his own hand.
This was not Joe's lucky day. (Naturally enough, for Joe claims he never has one.) West took the ace and queen of diamonds and shifted back to clubs. Declarer went through the motions of trying for some fanciful sort of squeeze, but it was all pure moonshine. He had already lost two diamonds and a club, and he was bound to lose a heart eventually. The contract was therefore set one trick.
Do you think Joe was unlucky.
